

URGE PRESIDENT TO TAKE HIS VACATION

LEADERS IN CONGRESS INSIST THAT WILSON GO TO SUMMER HOME AS HE HAD PLANNED.

CONGRESS TO ADJOURN

Many Will Attend Celebrations Elsewhere—Tariff Bills Consideration Continues Again Today.

Washington, June 27.—President Wilson arranged his engagements to leave today with his family for the summer White House at Cornish, N. H. The president does not intend to remain more than a few days to get his family settled. Should congress adjourn tomorrow over July 4th his stay might be extended a few days. It is his intention, however, to remain in Washington and share the discomforts of the heated season with congress.

Senator Kern, majority leader, conferred with the president about the work of the democratic caucus next week and advised him not to cut his trip to Cornish on that account. The president was told by Representative Underwood that the house probably would do no business next week, as some of its members were planning to go to the Gettysburg celebration. Senator Kern told the president he expected the caucus to finish its work by Wednesday and the senate would adjourn until the following Monday.

Senate democrats put the cloture rule to tariff speeches in the caucus today, determined to complete consideration of the Underwood-Simmons bill for report to the senate next week. Having spent hours yesterday on one paragraph which was not completed when adjournment was taken, it was evident that the discussion would be prolonged unless discussion were checked.

Resolutions were adopted to limit debate on each item in dispute and deny any senator the right to speak more than once on the subject. Again today the countervailing duty or wheat and flour was first taken up with the general countervailing duty amendment. The president's power to retaliate against all nations for discrimination against the United States on any commodity.

Subpoenas will be issued at once by the senate lobby investigating committee for Louis Pass, Edward and Paul D. Cravath, New York attorneys and for David LaMar, a Wall Street man, to appear next week in connection with its investigation of charges that the national congress are being used to secure influence with financial men.

Mr. Ledward and Mr. Cravath are understood to have additional information that they are willing to furnish to the committee. Both were referred to by Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific, as having been recipients of mysterious telephone calls that purported to come from congressmen.

Open hearing on the administration currency bill will begin late next week before the senate banking committee. The hearings are expected to be held in the senate chamber. Men bankers and students of finance. Senator Owen declared today that under no circumstances would the federal reserve board be increased or representation be given to the banking interests.

The house rules committee today agreed on a rule by which the deficiency appropriation bill to be reported early in July will carry a specific provision to abolish the commercial court at New York in the United States district court.

All amendments to the agricultural schedule of the new tariff proposed by democrats of the senate finance committee were approved today by the caucus including the countervailing duty on wheat and flour. The finance committee later may recommend enlargement of its proposed amendment directing the president to proclaim countervailing duties on certain commodities when discrimination by other nations is disclosed.

For suggested changes the amendment can compel payment of full revenue duty on brandies used in forty-five sweet wine was returned to the customs committee. Opponents of the proposal was aroused among California wine producers.

CHICAGO ITALIANS TRY A KIDNAPPING

Three Men Are Under Arrest For Attempt to Carry Off Young Girl Which One Wished to Marry.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, June 27.—Three Italians were arrested in their attempt to kidnap Angelina Di Maggio, 20 years old, in an automobile on the north side today. The men who were arrested are Philip Tortorico, 32 years old, who the police say planned the kidnapping in order to marry the girl; Dominick Albamonte, 25 years old; and Frank De Maria, 22 years old.

Miss Di Maggio said Tortorico had been forcing his attentions on her for some months, and that she rejected his offers of marriage last night. His plans to kidnap the girl were betrayed to the police by an enemy of the suitor and a trap was set for the would-be abductors.

This morning detectives watched the girl's house and held her when she left for work. They had not gone a block before they saw three men leap from an auto, seize the girl and drag her into the machine. The detectives rescued the girl and after a scuffling chase of a mile during which they fired after them, they captured the men. This is the third attempt to kidnap a girl with a view to forcing her into marriage made in the same district within a year.

ASK INVESTIGATION OF SCHOOL FINANCE

Senator Linley Introduces Resolution Providing for Probe by a Legislative Committee.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 27.—Senator Linley introduced a resolution in the senate last night asking for an investigation by a legislative committee of the subject of state school funds and their effect on the educational system. His resolution points out that during the year 1910-11 the state school tax amounted to $1,364,143.06 of which only $107,550 went to rural schools. He believes that the school laws should be correlated and that a comprehensive plan of working out a system of state aid should be adopted. The resolution calls for a committee. Three from the assembly and two from the senate, to be appointed by the presiding officer of each house to make the investigation.

The senate sent to engrossment the Scott bill providing for merging the state fire marshal's office and the department of inspector of illuminating oils with the industrial commission. Senator Scott explained that in time such a plan would mean a great saving to the state. Senator Kelsen thought there was no quorum and threatened a roll call. There was a scuffling in the halls for members were finally a sufficient number were found. The bill was passed by a vote of 5 to 12. Senator Hoyt's bill for the treatment of insane, epileptics and feeble-minded was advanced. The senate also engrossed the Burke bill for the publication of all the messages of the governors and the beginning of the state. Senator Teasdale's bill to tax the incomes of single men who are earning more than $400 was killed. Senator Teasdale said that he believed every man ought to carry some of the burden of taxes in order to appreciate government.

The bill for an investigation of the subject of accidents, invalidity and sickness, which was on the calendar for non-concurrence, was also engrossed. The senate killed the bill for the publication of the legislative bulletin and the measure asking the state printing board to make an inventory of the government's printing. The bill appropriating $2,500 for the purchase of lunches to be used by the fish and game department was advanced. Senator White attempted to cut the appropriation down, but his amendment was defeated. Senator Scott explained that the lunches were to be used to enforce the law. Governor McGovern has vetoed the bill providing for a state board of university education.

Senator True, former secretary of the state board of agriculture, succeeded in defeating the Spoor bill providing that the state board of agriculture be elected by the various agricultural and breeding associations. Senator White wanted to know if some of the members of the board did not spend most of their time downtown, in Milwaukee, not attending to the duties of the board. He had heard of this criticism but believed it was untrue if applied to a majority of the members. Blicher moved reconsideration of the vote, which failed.

The senate passed the bill for the election of the Wisconsin state auditor, which is desired returned to the assembly to amend it so as to legalize invalid saloon licenses, was laid over until July 9.

The Nye bill providing that state institutions may have their printing done locally was ordered to third reading. Two bills by the assembly committee on judiciary providing that the judges of the circuit courts of Racine and Kenosha counties be elected by the county judges were advanced. Senator Zophy made a fight to save the Zinn bill providing that all names on the poll list shall be placed in the jury list. The selection of juries. Kelsen scored the bill as a cumbersome process, saying that 90,000 names in a jury box would be an anomaly. Zophy said all juries in Milwaukee seemed to be selected from the business classes, and he could not remember when a workingman had been called to sit on a jury. The bill was killed by a vote of 13 to 9.

The senate concurred in the O'Connor bill re-writing the drainage laws of the state, and the Everett bill providing legal machinery for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people. Assembly bill Anderson, joint resolution directing the geological survey to survey the lands in the forest reserve within the next two years was concurred in. Upon motion of Senator Cunningham, this bill was referred to a committee for the establishment of a home for crippled and deformed children was laid over until July 9.

In spite of Senator A. E. Martin's opposition, the Madison board of the bill, applying to Milwaukee, was sent to third reading by a vote of 13 to 12. It was supported on the floor by Skogmo and Bosshard. Bosshard claimed that all the jokers had now been eliminated from the bill. Senator Martin said the bill pleased no one but its authors.

By a vote of 16 to 6, the senate passed the bill directing the industrial commission to examine a moving picture film to be shown in the state. On motion of Kelsen it laid over until July 9 the Wolf river reservoir bill and the Stevens forestry measure.

DIVORCE OF SALOON MEASURE DEFEATED

Last Chance to Enact Legislation Freeing Saloons From Brewery Control Killed by Senate.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., June 27.—The last chance to enact legislation divorcing saloons from brewery control faded with the senate's action yesterday afternoon in indefinitely postponing the Teasdale bill which provided that no individual, firm or corporation may hold an interest in more than one retail liquor license. Reconsideration was refused, thus disposing of the issue with finality. A similar bill introduced by Assemblyman Feeney was killed in the assembly by a large vote several weeks ago.

The substitute amendment to the Teasdale bill was rejected by a vote of 14 to 10, and the bill itself was slaughtered by a vote of 17 to 7.

The senate engrossed the judicial committee bill said to have been prepared by Attorney General Owen prohibiting trusts, monopolies and restraints of trade. The bill contains provisions for the incorporation of the state shall be deemed unlawful, punishable by fine or imprisonment. The A. E. Martin bill providing that the sale of groceries and meats shall not be deemed a work of charity or necessity was engrossed. The senate refused by a vote of 14 to 10 to kill it. The bill aims to forbid such places of business to keep open Sundays.

The senate sent to engrossment the so-called Emery substitute of the Plennig bill prohibiting the sale of "corn syrup" in Wisconsin except in labels which disclose the ingredients. An amendment to allow the use of the words "glucose and sirup" was rejected.

Although all saloon licenses in the state expire on Monday night, the legislature has granted no relief to the nearly 4,000 saloons in the state which are being conducted under the provisions of the Baker law, as it has been interpreted by the supreme court.

The house bill relating to the sale of household goods on the installment plan, was ordered to third reading in the senate.

Richard, stating that he had no objection to the strike, could do better. Picketing continued at the plants today, but there was no violence.

TAKE QUICK STEPS TO SECURE JOHNSON

Government Hopes to Apprehend Negro Pugilist Who Attempts To Escape by a Trip to Canada.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago, June 27.—The federal government is considering quick measures to have Canada deport Jack Johnson under a year's sentence for violation of the white slave law. Officials of the department of justice today began an investigation of the negro's presence in Montreal and gave particular attention to the statement of Charles F. Devoudy, special agent at Chicago. That although the offense of which Johnson was convicted is not extraditable it is the custom of the Canadian immigration authorities to expel aliens convicted of crime.

Johnson Safe.
Washington, June 27.—Jack Johnson has made good his escape from the United States for the time being at least and can neither be extradited nor deported from Canada, according to the latest official views here.

Johnson, it has been learned, is traveling on a tourist's ticket and Canada cannot return him because her immigration law does not exclude a transient alien in such circumstances. Johnson's offense is not extraditable. He is a Canadian citizen. Officials here were making an effort today to have the negro returned to this country under Canadian immigration laws, but it has failed.

Ottawa, Ont., June 27.—If Jack Johnson does not at once prove to the immigration officials at Montreal that he holds a through ticket to France or St. Petersburg, as he maintains he will be arrested and sent back to Chicago as quickly as the machinery of the law will permit. Further, if Johnson holds a ticket he must use it without delay. This is the opinion of the Canadian immigration department after the receipt of a telegraphic request from the United States vice consul in Montreal that the negro be deported.

Jack Johnson was notified by the police today that provided he kept his word and left Canada within a day or so he would not be arrested.

ELECTION IN MAINE ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Contest For Seat Of Late Congressman Goodwin Will Be Three Cornered—Progressive Candidate [SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Augusta, Me., June 27.—Although the special election for the third Maine district to choose a successor to the late Congressman Goodwin will not be held until September the contest already is beginning to attract wide attention. The situation as it appears at present is full of interesting possibilities.

The late Congressman Goodwin, Republican, was elected in September last over Gould, Democrat, the sitting member by plurality of only 709 Mr. Goodwin's victory was due to his personal popularity, his long acquaintance with Republican politics, and the prestige resulting from his years of intimate association with Thomas B. Reed.

The September election was held while the truce between the Republicans and Progressives was in force. The Progressives had no candidate in the field, and those who desired to flock about from the old parties had to choose between the Socialist and the Prohibition tickets. In all the minor parties there less than 800 votes. Now the spirit of Maine politics has undergone a change, and it is expected that the Progressives will have a candidate of their own in the coming election. With a three-cornered fight among the Democrats, Republicans and Progressives, the result will afford an excellent opportunity of measuring their comparative strength and of noting any changes in political sentiment that may have come over the voters since the general election of last November.

It was not denied that Mrs. Schieber fired the shots that killed her husband, but the defense contended that they were not intended for him. Redman Still Dangerous. It does begin to show, as if the Indians are rapidly gaining prominence in our national division. The old wheeze about the "passing of the red man" will have to be put back in the wagon if these baseball red men continue to grow and thrive. Every so often, regularly, we hear of a new Indian wonder that breaks into the major leagues. The most recent to come to public notice is probably Pitcher Johnson with Cincinnati. And Jim Thorpe, at every new dispatch is improving at a great clip, fast winning a place alongside of Benders, Myers, et al. Jim is showing quite a bit of stuff as a pitcher. The redskins behave well on the diamond, and very desirable additions to the game. Perhaps their popularity with the fans is due to the excuse they offer

BILL TO LEGALIZE BOXING IS PASSED

Hedding Measure Now Up to Governor for His Signature.—Debate on Bill is Spectacular.

Madison, Wis., June 27.—After an hour's debate the senate yesterday afternoon passed the Hedding boxing bill. Senator White of Winnebago county moved a reconsideration and the motion failed. This puts the bill up to Governor McGovern. The vote was preceded by a spectacular debate. Senator Bosshard denounced the measure as an attempt to legalize prize fighting in Wisconsin. He said the meaning of the bill might be good, but gradually "the blood appetite of audiences would become so strong that boxing bouts would give way to prize fighting." Senator Kilean replied that the bill would make boxing a clean and wholesome sport. He said the bill would rid the game of all vicious features. Senator Ackley read a letter from the chief of police of Eau Claire favoring the measure. Senator Teasdale, in closing the de-

LITTLE ED CAMP'S GETTING DANGEROUS

Eddie Campi.

Since his victory over Charles Ledoux Tuesday night, California fight fans see in Eddie Campi the coming bantam champion. Vision of a titanic battle with Champion Johnny Coulton now loom before the young Californian. Ledoux fought Kid Williams of Baltimore, to a standstill, so it looks as if the championship battle would be between Coulton and Campi.

When coming to bat, for the war whoop the fans seem to enjoy.

Back to the Woods. Pitcher Harry Covaleskie of the Chattanooga Southern league team will probably return to their major league. Hedges, president of the St. Louis Browns, has an eye on him and plans to sign him at the close of the Southern league season. Covaleskie won some little rep when pitching for the Quakers in 1905 by beating the Giants three games in one week and thus losing the pennant for them. He's been known as the "Great Kid" ever since. A few years later he pitched for the Cincinnati Reds and while he seemed to have a world of stuff he didn't win very consistently. When Cincinnati let him go Covaleskie told 'em all that he could pitch better than any pitcher they had and he knew it. He then went South and won about twenty games straight, creating an awful future in the Southern league. There is every reason why he should make good in the big show upon his return, if he can overcome his old tendency to get rattled at unseasonable moments.

Flowers for Gunboat. Bob Fitzsimmons says that Gunboat Smith is, in his estimation, the best of the present heavies. He has the real fighting mind, says Bob, and more important than anything else he has the punch. A man may win the belt without a punch, but it's impossible for him to hold it for any length of time. That's why Corbett didn't hold the laurels long. Bob declared. He lacked the necessary wallop.

bute against the bill said there was not a stain in the state not a gambler which did not want the bill passed, and he declared the best citizens in Wisconsin were opposed to it. The vote was as follows: For the bill—Senators Ackley, Albers, Bickler, Burke, Cunningham, Kellogg, Kilean, A. E. Martin, Perry, Richards, Stevens, White, Zophy, 12. Against—Senators Bosshard, Glenn, Hoyt, Huber, Hustling, H. C. Martin, Mouk, Randolph, Teasdale, Truee, 10.

Prior to its passage an amendment was incorporated prohibiting the sale of liquor in buildings in which boxing bouts are held. Teasdale denounced the amendment as worthless, saying that a saloon would be established next door.

ATHLETIC EVENTS ENTERTAIN TURNERS AT DENVER MEETING

Exhibitions of Model Gymnastics Share With Music and Literary Contest in Attention.

Denver, Colo., June 27.—Competition in athletics continued today at Lakeside stadium in connection with the 1st Olympic of the North American Gymnastic Union. In addition to the musical and literary contests, were held at the auditorium. Both began promptly at seven this morning, each attracting great crowds of visitors to the Bundles-Turners and local enthusiasts. Between the hour of noon and one o'clock a concert in mid air was given by musicians stationed in the top of the 239-foot Campanile Tower in the downtown district. This afternoon at Lakeside stadium were held exhibitions of model gymnastics, members of the local turnvereins participating along with children from the public schools. Tonight at the auditorium prize singing contests will be held, the singing societies of the different visiting turnvereins taking part. The calculating boards are kept busy figuring the individual and team percentages of the turners contesting in the athletic events, but their work is being carefully guarded and no information will be given out until Sunday, when prizes will be awarded. Considerable apprehension was expressed by less experienced turners last night when it became known that several veterans of the turning schools of the east and previous prize winners had arrived in the city and would appear in the contests today and tomorrow. Some were from Newark, N. J., and others from New York city. St. Louis had been boasting of a wonder among the younger element in the Concordia turnerst who would sweep the field and the members of the Concordia contingent declared they had no fear of the outcome.

The action of the authorities in ordering strict enforcement of the regulations in regard to cafes closing at midnight has greatly incensed the officials of the commercial organizations who argue that the giving of the keys to the city to guests means a liberal attitude. Prominent German residents sent a message of protest to the district attorney who is away on a visit and upon whose instructions before leaving his assistant says he acted last night when he directed the police authorities used to enforce the law.

Howard Shanks.

In several recent games Howard Shanks, the Washington outfielder, has given remarkable exhibitions of fielding. Daily he pulls down drives that it seems impossible for him to reach and catches balls that seem certain to fall safe. He is constantly improving in his fielding and is establishing the fact that he is the best left fielder in the American league.

Unexcelled.
The best beauty dope on earth is good health.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Low pressure continues throughout the West and is attended by heavy rain. This rain area extends over the Lake region, and over the country west of the Mississippi with the exception of the Southern Plateau Region. At Alpena, 3.28 inches of rain were recorded during the last 24 hours. Temperatures over this region have risen slightly.

An area of low pressure with rain and rising temperature has made its appearance over New England. Fair weather and high pressure prevail over Florida. Heavy downpours have occurred at Tampa and at Jacksonville.

FORMER LOCAL MEN IN HARD TRAINING

Two Tippet Brothers, Now at Lawrence College, Are Hardening Muscles for Football. This Fall. "Red" Tippet, captain of the 1913 Lawrence college football eleven, and his brother Walter, former Janesville residents, have joined the paving crew for the summer, in order that they might harden their muscles for the fall sport at Lawrence. They are both three year men on the Lawrence team. Their older brother Ralph, who played four years on the Lawrence gridiron, graduated this June, and only the two will be left. Both "Red" and Walter had excellent positions offered them for the summer, but they preferred the training stunt. "Red" has one more year in school, while Walter has two more. They will wear the pink all summer and then train with the Lawrence eleven during the fall workout, and by that time they should be in the best of condition for football.

MISS WILSON IS SOLOIST AT SOCIAL CENTER MEETING

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Madison, Wis., June 27.—Miss Margaret Wilson, the daughter of the president and her charming voice, captured the interest of the large throng of Tenth warders who last night filled the auditorium of the Tenth ward school at a social center meeting. Miss Wilson appeared in three songs numbers. Those of musical discernment who disassociated her singing from their understanding of her high social position, testified that she possesses an unusually sweet voice of careful cultivation. She was encircled with such appearance. Her principal numbers were "O My Laddie" by Thayer, "The Swan" by Greig, and "My Lovely Gella," from the Old English. Prof. Arnold Dresden was her accompanist.

Miss Zona Gale gave a reading, and E. N. Wilson, the daughter of the house social center in his community near Madison. Other musical numbers were contributed by university folk.

Miss Wilson was a center of interest to all who came to inform reception in her honor followed the program, and dancing continued for an hour. Miss Wilson joining in the festivities with girlish abandon. Miss Wilson did not hesitate to express her appreciation of the value of social centers to the life of the community.

My interest in this movement has grown very greatly. She said she is one of wonderful potentialities and I look to see it spread rapidly over the nation. "The spirit of such meetings as this is delightful."

Miss Wilson will return east next Monday.

GALVESTON WILL WAR CLUBS UPON ILLEGAL CLUES

Galveston, Texas, June 27.—Clubs formed in this state solely for gambling, liquor selling or other illegal purposes will be put out of business, if plans discussed here today at a conference of executive officers of legitimate clubs are carried through. There are 140,000 members of bona fide clubs in Texas. Their organizations are being menaced, it is claimed, by the formation of clubs for illegal purposes. The legislature will be urged to enact a law which will abolish the evil and at the same time not be a hardship on the legitimate clubs.

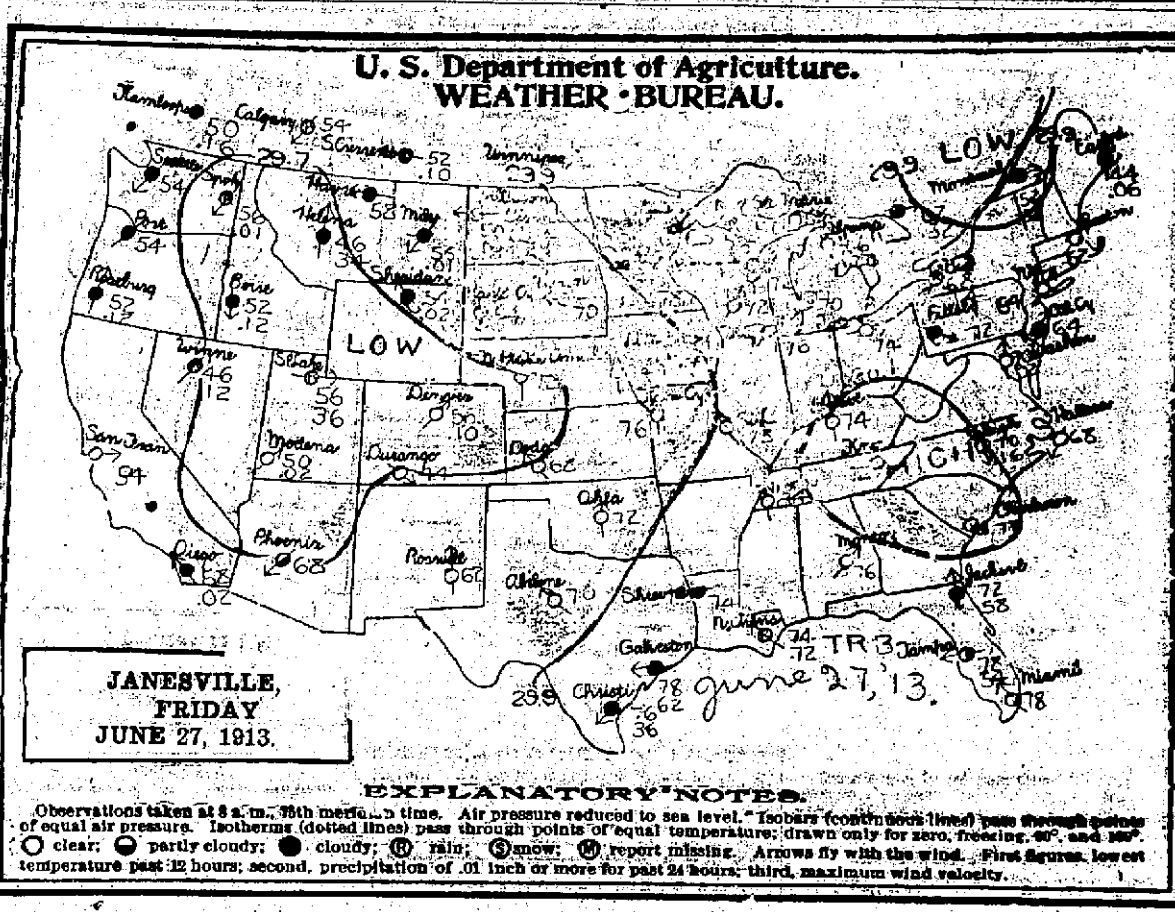

Phi Alpha Delta Convention. Chicago, Ill., June 27.—The Phi Alpha Delta society, the second oldest and largest of the legal fraternities, began its annual convention at the Hotel Sherman in this city today with a large attendance. The fraternity was formed in 1898 at the Northwestern University law school. It now has chapters at twenty-nine of the leading law schools of the country.

CUT OUT THE NOISE.

The city of Appleton recently passed an ordinance prohibiting the use of the cut-out on automobiles within the city limits. Other cities are following suit and Janesville should get in line.

If there is any one public nuisance more pronounced than another, just now, it is the cut-out nuisance. About every boy in town, who runs a car, goes sailing up the street with a cigarette between his teeth and his foot on the cut-out pedal, and many older men, who are new at the wheel, seem to imagine that they will be lost in the shuffle if they don't go through the same fool performance.

There was a time when an automobile engine was a noisy business when she didn't make as much noise as a switch-engine, but that time has passed, and today the cars are made to run as quietly as a rubber-tired buggy.

Court street and every other hilly street in the city, is a string of smoke and noise, eighteen hours out of the twenty-four, and the people who live along these thoroughfares are entitled to some consideration. The city fathers will gain the thanks of the community by cutting out the "cut-out" nuisance.

DEMAND FOR LABOR.

The demand for labor of all kinds was never greater than it is today. This demand includes all classes, from the unskilled toiler, who invests but little save muscle, to the most expert artisan. Scarcely a day passes but that want advertisements for men, in almost every department, are received, from manufacturers through the west. This class of advertising is universally declined, because there is no surplus of labor in the home market.

The promise of an abundant harvest, with a ten billion dollar crop estimated, is another evidence of continued prosperity, and while tariff legislation is more or less disturbing, the future has been largely discounted, and there is but little danger of a panic resulting.

The business of the country adjusts itself very rapidly to changed conditions and the most of our industries have passed so far beyond the nursery stage that they are able to meet world competition, in spite of pauperized labor abroad.

The long continued era of prosperity, which has blessed us as a nation, finds us today financially strong, and the spirit of conservatism, which everywhere prevails, is proving a wholesome check to reckless speculation.

The demand for goods has kept so close to the supply, that there are no overstocks, either in the hands of merchants or manufacturers, and as a result there is but little demand for liquidation.

The condition of the country is entirely different from conditions previous to the panic of 1893. Then everybody was in debt, and when hard times came on, the demand for money was so far in excess of the supply that failure and bankruptcy were of daily occurrence, while enforced idleness was the order of the day.

The nation has not only increased in wealth, at rapid pace, but the stock of confidence was never so abundant. There is every reason to believe that good times will continue if everybody becomes a booster.

A SAD MISTAKE.

Claiming its great friendship for President Wilson, the Wall Street Journal believes he has made an irreparable mistake in signing the sundry civil appropriation bill. It says: "President Wilson's friends, among whom this paper counts itself not the least, will receive his signature of the sundry civil appropriation bill, with its lawless and indefensible rider, with peculiar regret. This country will forgive a president who is obdurate, or hasty, headstrong, radical or reactionary, because it has learned to make allowances for the limitations of human nature. It does not forgive a president for an act which it considers shows servility.

"It is the business of congress to make appropriations. Delay in the passage of such appropriations did not concern Mr. Wilson, where a question of principle was involved. The exemption of a farmers' alliance or a trades union from prosecution, for an act which the law has declared to be a crime, involved a question of principle which no president could afford to forego. Mr. Wilson's explanations are admirable, and do credit to a great artist in words. There are hundreds of excellent excuses for his signature—and one reason.

"Mr. Wilson may think the shallow plea of expediency will free him from future consequences. He is mistaken, and he will realize it within the present session of congress, and from the men to whom he has conceded an un-American and undemocratic license to break the law. He has instituted an investigation of the Washington lobbyists. The most sinister, the most powerful, the most persevering of them, the lobby of the labor trust believes, now, that it owns the president body and soul, and especially soul.

"That lobby will enforce the terms of what it considers its bargain in due time, and will denounce Mr. Wilson, without hesitation or shame, when he attempts to rectify an irretrievable mistake."

It appears that there is a question in the minds of the railroad commission as to whether the vote of Janesville voted properly when they decided to purchase the "Water Company," and perhaps a new election will have to be ordered.

Congress is not having a monotonous time after all. The tariff discussion, the income tax dispute, the proposed currency law and the lobby investigation keeps them all on the qui vive down in the nation's capital.

Janesville residents should appreciate the beauties of Rock river more than they do. Strangers come here and see the wonderful views and windings of the river for the first time and are entranced, but few local residents fully appreciate what is right at their doors.

So it appears that the dock line of the Rock river was established some years ago and the council had the right to suggest that the Milwaukee street bridge be made shorter after all.

It is up to Governor McGovern to take action on the question of rebuilding the burned structures across the Rock river after all. Here is a chance for him to make many new friends in this city.

It appears that the high-salaried lobbyist who lives in Washington has to stay on the job just as long as congress does, so there is some hardship connected with the job after all.

The average voter does not hesitate a second when it comes to voting for that bond issue to rebuild the Milwaukee street structure. "Vote 'yes'" and let the work be started at once.

Any fisherman who has had his bait eaten by turtles will agree that Dr. Friedmann's serum is a good thing after all.

Only enthusiasts will get up at five o'clock in the morning to water the garden unless he wishes to annoy some neighbor he does not like.

"Midnight oil" is not a mere figure of speech. It is burned in automobiles on their nightly joy-rides the country over.

The horse excels the auto in the horse shows. No auto can prance and arch its neck as can a four-legged nag.

Is Janesville to have a sane Fourth celebration or not? The toll on the night of the Fourth will show.

Illinois women have now obtained the goal of their ambition and equal suffrage has become a fact.

Belated June brides will find July an excellent time for their honeymoon trips.

Contentment. I love to sit upon my cottage porch And watch the rich ride by in fine machines; I love to see the handsome touring cars, The cute coupes and ponderous limousines.

I love the order they all leave for me To breathe long after they have hurried by; I love to sit until I suffocate In clouds of dirt and dust as they have made fly.

I love the odor they all leave for me And shrieks and squawks and squeals they hurl at me; They make night hideous and I forget my other troubles all, you see.

So, let them honk and snort and hit the breeze And burst their tires and suffer other ills; Let them enjoy what piece of mind they may. I am content, I do not get the pills.

PERSONAL. Answer to Correspondents. Mamie—No, Mamie, a humidor is not a man who writes funny things for the magazines.

F. E. B.—Your kind letter received. In reply to same we would say to you that you should not get discouraged. We think of you very often and will regret in a short time. We have a rich uncle who can't hold out much longer this kind of weather with the ailment he has got.

Angeline—You ask us how to trim your hat. That's a job. If it is anything like most of them we've seen, you can trim it very effectively with a pair of shears or a sharp pocketknife.

H. G.—You ask us what is the finest sort of garden we have seen and we answer without any hesitancy that Mary is. Patricia—To remove a wart on the thumb, lay the thumb carefully on a block of wood, and, taking a sharp hatchet strike the thumb a brisk blow above the place where the wart is. The wart will never return. Housewife—If company calls suddenly and there is not enough in the house to eat, take about fifteen yards of clothes line, the white variety preferred, cut it into convenient lengths and stew it with tomatoes and cheese, and even if the guests do know it isn't real spaghetti they will be too polite to mention the fact.

Fourth of July Hints. Always hold dynamite crackers in the hand when exploding them. This way you can keep them from falling and a celebrator next year.

If the cannon doesn't go off on time you can make it do business immediately by looking into the muzzle. This never fails.

Always carry a lighted piece of punk in the pistol pocket of your trousers. This will save a lot of time, even though it doesn't save the trousers when a country's freedom is at stake. Your revolutionary ancestors would never have stopped for that.

Always point the skyrocket at the house across the way. It may not kill anybody, but it will scare them to death, so you will accomplish the same ultimate result.

Throw your firecrackers in the dry grass right next to the house. The house will make a grand illumination if the night is dark and add much to the glory of the occasion.

Always remember that a skittish horse is dead in love with patriotism in the form of firecrackers and never let one go by in the street without giving him a salute.

If the dynamite cracker doesn't go right hold it up to the mouth and blow on it. You will never have anything more to say upon any subject.

According to Uncle Abner. Any fellow who is willing to act as judge of a handsomest baby contest has got sand enough to accomplish anything that he sets out to do in this life.

Our congenial postmaster says the stamp business has picked up a lot since Miss Euphemia Perkins has been sending contributions of poetry to the magazines and if there were two or three more authors here our office would soon be in the first-class instead of the fourth.

Deacon Stubbs has not an old 1907 model mule and not a self-starter. When he wants the mule to go he has to get out and crank her up by twisting her tail.

A fellow will eat stuff in a saloon that he wouldn't touch if his wife tried to make him eat it at home.

A lot of women are interested in psychology and the over-soul who have never had time to learn how to darn a sock.

I can stand for a fool, but I ain't got no use for a dumb fool. A dumb fool is one who goes to it a second time.

NEAR TWO HUNDRED FOUNTAIN PENS ARE TAKEN BY THIEVES

Williamson Pen Company's Shop on South River Street Broken Into Last Night—Loss Estimated Near $700.

Thieves who broke into the shop of the Williamson Pen Company on the second floor of the Norcross building on South River street last night or early this morning, made good their escape with one hundred fifty or two hundred fountain pens, estimated to be worth between $500 and $700. The loss was discovered by Shop Foreman Charles E. Parish when he came to work at seven o'clock this morning.

Entrance to the work room of the company was effected through a window at the rear which opens onto a fire escape. Several lead-to sheds at the back of the Nolan grocery had evidently been scaled after which access to the shop was comparatively easy. The window was pried open by the use of a jimmy which was found by Mr. Parish this morning. Most of the pens which were taken had either just been finished by the shopmen on Thursday or had just been repaired. A large number were in boxes in the front end of the work shop.

The offenders evidently took their time to ransack the entire shop and office as there was evidence of their work in nearly every part of the establishment. Boxes containing stock were found opened and the contents partially scattered. The thieves were careful, however, to take merely the finished product or such parts as they considered valuable. In the office letters were found scattered about the floor and a few pens which were to have been sent out this morning were taken.

Most of the pens, and especially the more valuable ones, are placed in the safe at night, but at times when the strong box is crowded or when there is a large number of pens that have been repaired or just finished, they are left in boxes on the work-room tables.

The police were notified this morning as soon as the loss was discovered and Officer Patrick Panning made an investigation. A list of the missing articles made out by the bookkeeper was given to the police. It stated that sixty-five Williamson pens had been stolen. 117 Held pens with a specially designed filler, and one Paul E. Wirt pen. The estimated value was $600 or $700. Most of the pens were of the plain black or mottled material, although a number were decorated with gold bands and several had elaborately ornamented gold and pearl barrels.

Chief of Police Ransom also made an investigation this morning and every effort will be made to apprehend the culprits. J. R. Lamb, vice president of the company, stated that it was his opinion that the work was done by local talent or persons acquainted with the shop. He was unable to give any definite clues, however. A more detailed list of the loss was given to Chief Ransom at noon.

Dinner Stories

Charlie is the cashier of a country bank. He and May were engaged to be married, but a quarrel separated them and the ring was handed back.

"And, remember, please," May added, "that when next we meet we do so as perfect strangers."
A few days later May entered Charlie's bank and presented a check for payment. Charlie took the check and examined it critically and then, instead of cashing it, he handed it back.
"I'm sorry," he said, "but it's against the rules of this bank to cash checks for perfect strangers."

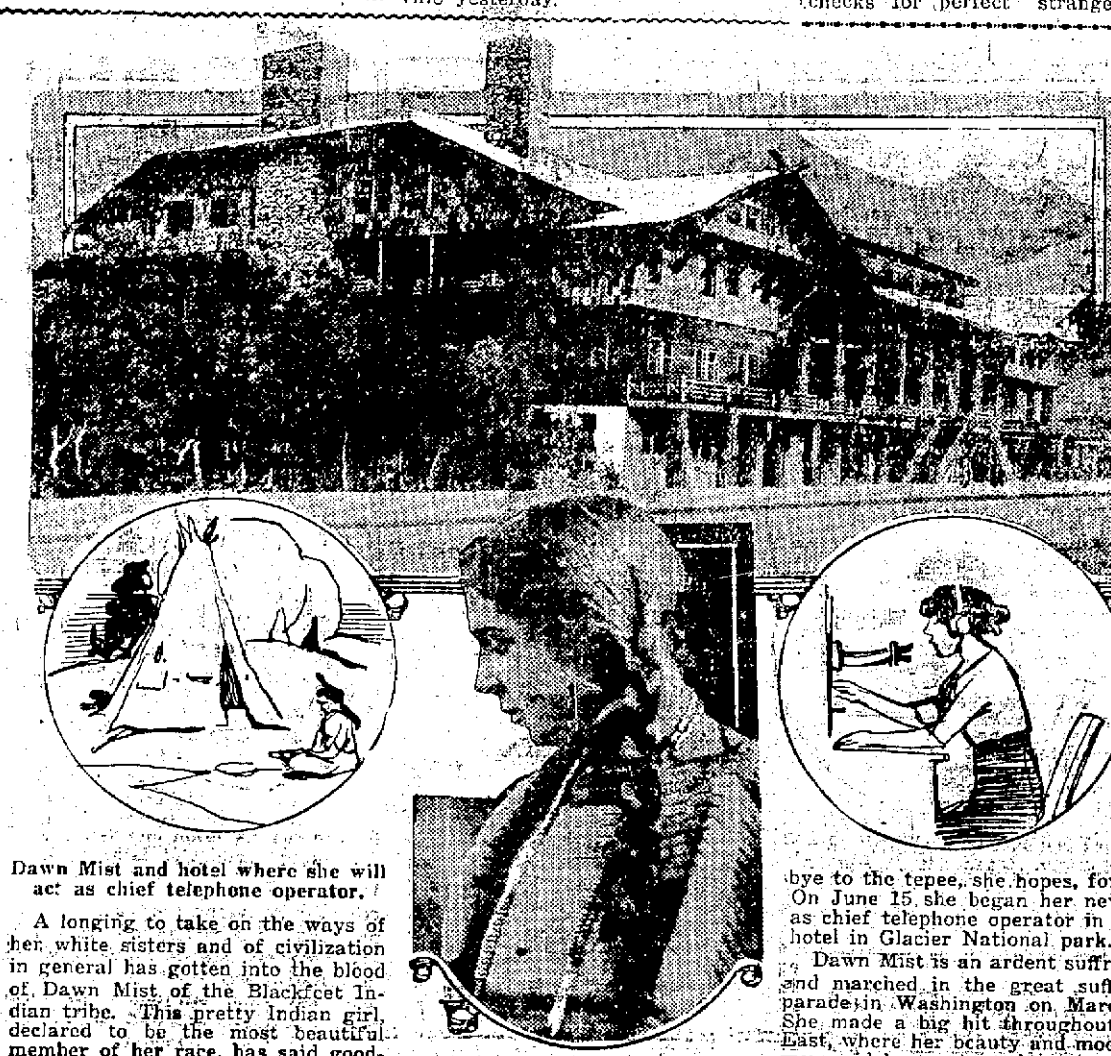

must find someone in town to identify you."
Sloane Gordon, the magazine writer, once lived in Hamilton, Ohio. When the flood rolled over half that state Gordon was handy to Hamilton and thought he'd go there and help. One day, enthusiastically rowing about the streets of Hamilton in a skiff, he heard a whinny from an old gray horse, which had crawled on the roof of a house caught in the waters.
"That horse," said Mr. Gordon, tears starting to his eyes, "is hungry."
So he rowed for two miles until he found a bag of oats. Then he rowed the two miles back slowly this time, because it was upstream. When he came in sight, the old gray horse shouted in rejoicing. It is very difficult to climb the roof of a house which is teetering in a flood. But Gordon did it. He fixed a nosebag of oats on the snuffing nose of the whinny veteran. Then the horse kicked him into the river.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, June 27, 1873.—A consideration of the subject of cheaper gas for illuminating purposes is always one of interest, as it touches the pocket of every household and household expense. Various methods for manufacturing gas in small quantities for lighting stores, houses and public buildings have been brought in from time to time with varying degrees of success. The latest invention of that nature has attracted our attention is that of a small machine patented by Davey and Griswold of this city, which it is claimed to be a great improvement over all others for the purpose of supplying gas. It is a mixture of vaporized gasoline and common air and the owner of the machine informs us that five gallons of the gasoline will supply one thousand feet of gas. The machine is on exhibition in the windows of one of the downtown stores.
A scientific gentleman who has subjected a number of the army of frog that passed over this city to a microscopic examination is of the opinion that we are mistaken as to the species. He says that they are toads. If his theory is correct it takes the foundation out of our story of yesterday.
Reports of continued depredations against the shade trees of our beautiful city have again reached us and it is time that there was some steps taken to protect the interests of the people along this line.

The date July 1, 1907, used throughout the attorney's statement is changed to June 30, 1907.

The Christian and Amusements

By REV. WILLIAM EVANS, D.D.
Moody Bible Institute
Chicago

TEXT—Col. 2:17.

I. The true Christian will realize the true relation that should exist between work and pleasure.

If life is not to be one round of work, certainly it is not to be all one round of pleasure. Work, not amusement, is the business of life. Let us not miss this point. God has laid upon every man the necessity of work, and has distributed "to every man his work." Is it not just in this connection that we may be justified in finding fault with the professional sportsman who gives up his whole life to pleasure? When the main thing in college and university life is athletics are we not justified in protesting that life's main purpose is being lost sight of? Play and amusement is but a side issue in life; when it becomes the whole thing, then it is harmful and sinful, no matter whether the amusement in question be in the forbidden category or not; then even an innocent amusement becomes morally bad. Amusement is to work what whetting the scythe is to harvesting; he who never stops to create an edge to his scythe and cuts but little, while he who whets the scythe all day does none. If the mother enjoys amusements more than she does her children, the wife more than her domestic duties, the husband more than his home, the man more than his labor, and the student more than his books, then amusements are harmful and wrong.

II. The true Christian will see to it that his amusements are really recreative, and not dissipative.

A man may live so long in a bath that he comes out of it exhausted, or he can take a plunge or shower and come out better prepared for the duties of life. So it is with amusements: they may dissipate rather than recreate. Having a good time is not always recreation; it may be just the opposite. The amusements of the Christian should build up the whole man—physically, mentally, morally and spiritually.

1. The Christian's pleasures will recreate physically. The body of the Christian is a temple of the holy ghost. Therefore he must keep his body in as good, clean, pure and healthy a condition as possible. The body needs relaxation; it needs rest from the strain and tension of life; it needs new blood, new nerve tissues; it needs to be better fitted for the real tasks that lie within its sphere of labor. Bad thinking often comes from lack of exercise. Some people do not have enough body "to cover the mind with decency." There may be a time when it is my duty to play rather than pray, to romp rather than read, to take a good brisk walk rather than prepare a good talk.

The test the Christian must apply to his pleasures is: do they recreate and restore the waste tissues of the body? Excess in athletics is not recreation. Young men have died from overstrain in running; girls have been ruined for life by excessive rope-jumping. Many pleasures dissipate the powers of the body instead of recreating them.

2. The pleasure of the Christian should recreate mentally. The physical must not be developed at the expense of the mental. Giantism must not supplant intellectualism. Mind is greater than body, as Gladstone and Bismarck are greater than John L. Sullivan or James Jeffries. The Christian must ask himself, therefore, "What effect do my pleasures and amusements have upon my mind, my thought, my thinking? Do they build up, ennoble, purify, sanctify, or do they debauch, defoul, besmirch, debauch? Is my thinking higher, nobler, more God-like because of the pleasures in which I engage?" All things are not to be judged by the eye; the mind discerns also. Shakespeare speaks of the man "who hath a body filled with a vacant mind, gets him to rest crammed with distressful bread."

The Christian is to judge his amusements by this standard. Apply this principle to literature? What books do we read? If the Christian's master should inquire: "What readest thou?" what would be our reply? Beware lest our minds become diseased by the reading of light and trashy literature.

Judge the theater by this standard. Someone has said: "The laugh of the theater is the laugh that speaks of the vacant mind." Are we purer in thought, more virtuous in our dreams, sweeter in our imaginations; have we more earnest views of life; is the mind sensualized or spiritualized by attendance upon the theater?

Apply this test to the card table. Does this popular amusement furnish recreation to the mind? With its passion, its tenseness, its excitement, its late hours, does the game of chance rest and quicken the faculties for the labors of the next day?

Says the Old Grouch.
It's the people who have no children who like to write poems about 'em.

Dr. Charles F. Aked, who came over from England to take charge of the Rockefeller church in New York, and who is now preaching in San Francisco, says he hates the flunkiness of courts and kings. That is one of the reasons why he has renounced his allegiance to Great Britain and become an American citizen. America spells opportunity, says Aked.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE NAZARENE.

The world called him impractical, a dreamer. Yet may it not be possible that it has been the world that did the dreaming—likewise that its dreams have been nightmares of error, of false self consciousness, of shadows, of passions and prejudices and of the husks of life instead of the substance?

A dreamer, was he? Modesty has called every genius a dreamer. Ignorance has called every philosopher a dreamer. Blindness has called every prophet a dreamer. Sloth has called every reformer a dreamer or something worse. The old, standing among its fetish worship and its relics of the past, has buried its sneer at the open eyed new—"You are a dreamer."

A dreamer, was he? Yet his dream has overturned empires and systems. The paganism of Greece, of Rome and of the north fell before it. It spread over all the civilizations of Europe, found a new land and a new home beyond the sea and is just now winning its way against the older religions of the orient.

A dreamer, was he? Yet against his dream the onslaughts of materialistic philosophy have been made for 1,900 years in vain; his disciples have been fed to wild beasts and burned at the stake; professed followers have misrepresented him and loaded down his pure, spiritual faith with a mass of formalism and image worship. Yet despite all the opposition and obscuration he has a firmer hold on the world than ever before.

A dreamer, was he? Yet today the few minds are just beginning to realize the wonderful meaning and scope of his dream; his healing is again being practiced; great forces are springing up to put his social ideals into action; his truth is being revitalized by a spiritual renaissance, and the world is just now gaining glimpses of a real Christian era ahead.

A dreamer, was he? Yet his dream was the sweetest and most beautiful vision ever brought before the eyes of the human race, and it is coming true.

O Galilean, long hast thou been misrepresented both by friend and foe. Despised and almost alone in Judaea, thy faith has grown until its devotees are laboring in all the earth. At last through the long night of persecution and abuse it has come to the dawn of its triumph. It has survived the attacks of its enemies, and more marvelous still it has survived the barnacles who fastened themselves upon it for selfish or class ends. And it is carrying forward its gospel of regeneration, of health and of social brotherhood until it shall conquer the world.

Two Long Words.

The longest word in the French language is said to be "anticonstitutionnellement," and the longest word in the English language, "antitransubstantiationism." The old saying, "Brevity is the soul of wit," still holds good, however, particularly with poets.

HATES FLUNKYISM, COURTS AND KINGS

Dr. Charles F. Aked.

Dr. Charles F. Aked, who came over from England to take charge of the Rockefeller church in New York, and who is now preaching in San Francisco, says he hates the flunkiness of courts and kings. That is one of the reasons why he has renounced his allegiance to Great Britain and become an American citizen. America spells opportunity, says Aked.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

BE YOURSELF.

"AND do you know, the speech the audience laughed at and applauded most was something I've often thought myself, and never quite dared say for fear people would think I was queer."

It was a little friend of mine who had been to the theatre to see one of the most successful plays of the season, who made the above discovery.

What one of us has not had a similar experience in one way or another? Because we are afraid that we will not be understood or will be thought queer, we suppress our real thoughts and feelings, and then when we hear some braver person boldly speak out these same thoughts, or when we read them in a book, or listen to them in a play, and find that the world applauds, we feel that we ought to have had that applause.

But the applause did not belong to us because we were not brave enough to be our real selves. Doubtless many of the people who applauded that speech at the theatre so heartily did so just because they recognized their own hidden sentiments.

Most of us have real worth-while thoughts and ideas inside of us, but only a few dare to bring them out. And that is one of the reasons why there are only a few successful men and women in the world.

It is very hard for anyone to accomplish much in this world unless he is expressing himself in his daily work. Whatever we can do, we can do it best if we are natural. Anyone who spends his life imitating others and trying to conform to some general type, may win some measure of success, but it will never be as much as he could have won if he had been himself. You see he is eternally hampered. He is like an engine that must use the larger part of its energy overcoming demoralization.

Be yourself, be natural. In your intercourse with other people try to talk and act yourself. Say and do the different things you think of. I most emphatically don't mean that you shall deliberately try to be odd and original. Such forced originality is more artificial than any conventional, but be natural and simple, be yourself. And not only will you get more out of life that way, but you will help other people. For if you are natural, you will teach other men to be. Surely you have sometimes had the experience of striking a natural note with some friend with whom your relation had formerly been stereotyped and conventional, and of finding that he caught the note and responded in the same key, and that in the few moments or hours in which you held that key you came closer together than in all your years of intercourse.

To adapt a beautiful sentiment, "Be natural, and the naturalness that lies in other men, sleeping, but never dead, shall rise in majesty to meet thine own."

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is there any harm in going with boys to church when I am in good company and with other couples? (2) Not having any parents, is it right for me to take my younger sister with me one Sunday and my other sister the next?

ORPHAN.

(1) No, my dear. (2) Can't you take them both with you at one time? If not, it is all right to take them turn about like this.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of fourteen and deeply in love with a boy of fifteen. I went with him nearly a year. Now we had a quarrel and have not spoken to each other for nearly six months. What shall I do to make up with him? He loves me, so my other boy friends tell me, but he won't make up. (2) Do you think I am too young to go with fellows? My parents like this boy very much.

LONESOME.

(1) The next time you see him, suppose you smile at him very sweetly. That ought to be enough for him to know that you are willing to make up. He should start the reconciliation, however. Don't be snubby with him, my dear, because it is very doubtful if he is the boy you will want to marry when you are older and he will probably see some other girl who is more than you. So keep your dignity, little "Lonesome." (2) You are too young for beaux.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) From which side do you count the fingers on your hand to find where to wear the engagement ring? (2) What can I do to gain the consent of my parents to go with a respectable young man that they have refused to let me keep company with? Would it be proper for me to go to his house to spend an evening in company with other young people? (3) I have been considered out of place for my chum to go to the home of the young man with whom she keeps company if they are engaged and he lives in another town. (5)

Every Day Talks For Every Day People...

Did you ever visit with a girl or woman who until you had conversed with her had always seemed plain to you?

After visiting with her you wondered how you had ever made the blunder of calling, or even thinking, her plain.

Such a woman I count as one of my best friends. We were talking the other evening—just we two—in the rather intimate way and, in the course of our conversation, she told me how once in the past she chanced to overhear a conversation concerning her plainness. They were not the friends she was conversing with, but they were very frank, and cut her deeply, every bit of woman in her was hurt.

Thinking of their remarks, all right to please or be pleasing seemed forever denied her.

She consulted her mirror and in view of what she had heard, of course, it told her she was very plain.

She fussed silently for a while and then she wrote up to the fact that fussing wouldn't help her to be pretty. It might even make her plainer. "So I decided," said she, in telling me, "to try and be charming in my conversation, in my manner and attitude. I taught myself not to cultivate the ability to be a good listener; to try to be gracious. I tried to be sympathetic and to learn the art of putting myself in another's place."

"Well," you say, "with what result?"

Today she is one of the most popular women in her town, beloved by men, women and children, and married to as fine a man as any woman would ever desire to win.

Beauty of face while very much sought after isn't all, for after all it is a little thing, and the gracious, tactful woman we find presiding over the homes of the men who are really worth-while.

We can all be gracious. We can all cultivate a sincere, kindly manner by each day putting into our work, our home, our friendships, the very best that is in us.

Robert Louis Stevenson tells us that "to be honest, to be kind, to earn a little, and to spend a little less, to make upon the whole, a family happy for your presence, to renounce when that shall be necessary and not be embittered, to keep a few friends, but these without capriciousness, above all, on the same conditions, to keep friends with oneself, here is a task for all a person has of fortitude and delicacy."

THE KITCHEN CABINET

IT IS not so much from any superior genius that some men possess over another, but more from attention to study, and perseverance in the objects before them that some men rise to greater eminence than others.

—John Dalton.

THE DINNER TABLE.

"Order is heaven's first law."

There is a science in the laying of a dinner table and military precision is the rule followed by the best hostesses. The art and more often miss methods of arranging the silver in curves and groups is neither comfortable nor convenient. To begin at the beginning, the table should be covered with a silence cloth.

Next, the table cloth and napkins should be as fine as one can afford, and laundered with the utmost care. A cloth should be laid so that the center fold runs lengthwise of the table. If a round table is used, or in fact either:

The plate, as well as the silver, is placed one-half inch from the edge of the table. The knife is placed next the dinner plate, cutting edge toward the plate; the soup spoon beyond and perfectly parallel, and if an oyster fork is used, that is placed still beyond at the right.

The forks are placed at the left of the plate, tines up, the first to be used farthest from the plate. Works as well as spoons for additional courses are placed as needed, to avoid display as well as the use of room needed for other service.

At the left of the fork, the same distance from the table's edge, lay the napkin with the edge toward the plate, so that with one lift of the hand the linen may be unfolded. A piece of dinner bread or a roll may lay in the fold of the napkin.

Butter is never served at a formal dinner.

At the point of each knife is the water glass.

A small center piece with bon bon dishes, candies and dishes of salted nuts are arranged in convenient places.

The olives or radishes are best served in a bed of crushed ice.

Water glasses should be filled two-thirds full, and when refilling draw the glass to the edge of the table, always keeping the hand near the bottom of the glass.

All food to be taken by those at the table should be passed to the left, all portions for individual service should be set down at the right.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Things Worth Knowing.

In summer, when eggs are cheapest, take several dozen and make into puddings, keep in a flour paper sack. You will have puddies all winter with little cost.

If cake sticks to pan, let it stand on a wet cloth.

Sprinkle bottom of oven with salt if you have no asbestos mat to put under pans, when baking layer cake, and it will not set too brown on the bottom.

When cream does not want to whip, add the white of one egg. It never fails.

A dash of lemon in plain water is an excellent tooth wash; it not only removes tartar, but sweetens the breath.

The Table.

Rhubarb Sherbet—Put two pounds of rhubarb, boiling with a very little water and plenty of sugar, the rind of a lemon, and a little liquid carmine to color it attractively. Let this cool, then strain through sieve, add to it a pint of lemonade. Freeze and have ready to decorate with some strips of candied ginger.

Bran Gems—Take one egg, one-half cup sweet milk, two tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon melted butter, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one cup bran flour, one-half cup whole wheat flour. Bake in a slow oven.

Apple Gingerbread—To one cupful of boiling water add two tablespoonsfuls of butter and one cupful of maple syrup. Sift two cupsful of flour, with one-half teaspoonful of ciner one-half teaspoonful of salt and three tablespoonsful of baking powder. Beat in the maple mixture. Add one beaten egg and bake forty minutes in a medium hot oven.

Rice Pudding With Prunes—Two heaping tablespoonsful of powdered gelatin, one fourth of a cupful of rice, one and one-half cupsful of milk, one cupful of water, one-half cupful of sugar, yolks of two eggs, one teaspoonful of lemon juice, two cupsful of whipped cream, 12 stewed prunes stuffed with chopped nuts. Wash the rice and put it into sauce pan with the milk and cook slowly until soft. Beat the yolks of eggs in another sauce pan with the sugar; add the gelatin mixed with water, then stir over the fire a few minutes, but do not boil. Strain over the cooked rice, and when cold add lemon juice, prunes which have been rubbed through a sieve and the whipped cream. Pour into a sweet mold and set away in a cool place to mold. Turn out and garnish with large prunes with chopped nuts.

Baked Tomatoes With Cream Sauce—Select second, ripe, medium-sized tomatoes. Wipe, prick several times with a fork, arrange in pan and bake in a moderate oven. Remove skins, place on rounds of sauted bread and pour over them a rich white or cream sauce.

Lemon Rice Pudding—One quart of milk, the grated rind of two lemons, one cupful of rice, three eggs, three-quarters of a teaspoonful of salt, three heaping tablespoonsful of sugar. Scald the milk in a double boiler and boil the rice in it until the kernels are very soft. Stir together the yolks of the eggs, the sugar, salt and grated lemon rind. Pour gradually over the hot rice and milk, thinning the necessary with a little more milk to make it somewhat thicker than a boiled custard. Turn into a mudding dish and bake in a moderate oven for ten minutes. Beat the white of the eggs very stiff, and gradually add to them eight tablespoonsful of sugar and the juice of two lemons. Cover the pudding with this meringue and bake till it is a delicate brown. The lemon juice sinks down into the rice custard and, without curdling it, gives it an unusual and attractive flavor. Serve very cold.

Spinach Salad.

Materials—Spinach, one peck; salt, paprika, lemon juice, one-half; mayonnaise, one cup; gelatine, one teaspoonful.

Directions—Wash the spinach very carefully and cook it without water or in the steam cooker for ten minutes. Put it through the food chopper and add seasonings. Press into the molds, leaving a space in the middle. When cold fill the space with the mayonnaise made stiff with the gelatine dissolved in a little water and melted over the kettle. When ready to serve turn out on lettuce, with a little rice, yolk of egg on each and the whites cut in rings on the lettuce.

Cantaloupe Salad.

Materials—Cantaloupes, two; salt, paprika, cinnamon, one-half; salt, spoon; cream, one pint; gelatine, one teaspoonful; lettuce, mayonnaise.

Directions—Cut the edible part of the cantaloupes into small cubes, sprinkle with salt, paprika and cinnamon. Then add the cream-beaten stiff to which the dissolved gelatine has been added. When until the whole is firm and then turn into a mold and bury in ice and salt as directed for all mousses and parfaits.

When ready to serve wipe the mold with a cloth wet in cold water, and place on a plate. After garnishing with curly lettuce and pink mayonnaise pressed through a pastry tube, individual molds may be used.

Cheese Salad.

Materials—Tomatoes, salt, cottage cheese, paprika, chopped nuts, parsley, mayonnaise and watercress.

Directions—Select nice, smooth tomatoes, peel and scoop out the centers, saving the seeds. Turn upside down on a plate and out on a plate ready to serve. Make a filling of cottage cheese well seasoned with salt and paprika, chopped nuts and watercress, and mix all together with mayonnaise dressing.

Place the tomatoes on plates daintily garnished with watercress; fill them with the cheese mixture, and on top of this a teaspoonful of mayonnaise and a sprig of watercress. Serve at once.

How Fish Are Drowned.

Paradoxical as it may seem, fish have been drowned, just as human beings have been smothered by a too great pressure of air. One experiment consisted in putting fish into seltzer water, which brought about death by suffocation. If a living and healthy fish be put into water recently boiled, from which have been driven all the gases ordinarily present in distilled water, the fish dies in the same way.

What cities, as great as this, have once triumphed in existence, had their victories as great, joy as just and as unbounded, and, with short-sighted presumption, promised themselves immortality? Posterity can hardly trace the situation of some; the sorrowful traveler wanders over the awful ruins of others; and, as he beholds, he learns wisdom and feels the transience of every sublunary possession.—Oliver Goldsmith.

DR. TRIMMER

The Regular and Reliable Specialist

I treat successfully the cases I undertake and accept no fee from those that cannot be successfully treated. That is why I continue my visits year after year, while other specialists make only a few visits and cease to return.

That I have been eminently successful in all chronic diseases is proven by the satisfactory results obtained in difficult and long standing cases which have baffled the skill of many other physicians.

Being a graduate of one of the best schools of regular practice in this country, having had vast hospital experience and many years of extensive practice, I have become so proficient that I can locate and explain your trouble in a few moments. It costs no more to be under the care of an experienced physician than an inexperienced one.

I successfully treat CATARRH, Eye, Ear, Nose, Throat and Lung diseases in early cases.

Miss Mazurek Greeted Them With Nervous and Eager Relief.

transmit over little wires to listeners miles away every syllable of a whispered conversation in the opposite corner.

All of these changes in the neighborhood occurred within a few hours after Miss Mazurek had entered the house in Greenwich village; also one or two men dropped in to call on her in the course of the afternoon and evening.

The next day there were other callers on Miss Mazurek, and finally, early in the afternoon, the four—Mrs. Martin and her three lodgers—left the house in a body. Thereafter there was no caller until nearly 7 o'clock in the evening, when night had fallen. These were unusual visitors. There were two of them, and, though they had never entered the house before, they produced a bunch of keys and fitted one into the front door. The younger of the two men carried a woman's hand bag partially concealed under his coat. Miss Mazurek met them in the hall and greeted them with nervous and eager relief. They were Mr. Kayton and his irrepressible assistant.

The assistant had shortly before cleverly possessed himself of Mrs. Martin's bag and the keys while the party loitered in the hall.

The girl piloted them upstairs through the empty house to the attic, where Kayton unlocked the door with a key off the same bunch that had enabled them to enter the house.

A rather large work table was between the door and the fireplace, and between the fireplace and the table, but backed against the wall opposite the windows, was a low lounge.

A folding bed stood between the windows. To the right of the door was another door which evidently opened into a closet. Kayton tried the handle. It was locked.

"I'd like to search this rat hole," he muttered. Then, "Where's that dictograph, Joe?" he demanded suddenly, looking up. Manning produced the little square box that had caused one of his pockets to bulge. "Connect it out of that window," ordered his chief, indicating the one that opened on to the fire escape.

Manning gently opened the window as Kayton shut off his flashlight. He groped around in the dark, and after much grunting and swearing to himself, "reappeared from the outer darkness with two little wires. Deftly and swiftly he scraped the insulation off the ends and twisted them on to the wires that protruded from the dictograph. Then he fastened the little box securely in the angle of the window frame in the corner where it came out several inches from the wall. Only a search with the foreknowledge that the little betrayer was somewhere in the room could possibly have unearthed it.

When he had finished Kayton walked out into the middle of the room, and Manning again thrust his head out of the window.

"If you get this," said the chief in a low voice, "wave out your window." A moment later Manning drew back. "It's all right, governor," he said. "They're waving."

At this moment a cat in the dark regions somewhere outside the house walked plaintively.

"Here they come, governor," said Manning, and he started to close the window, but Kayton stopped him. "You hustle right back to the other house by the roof," he ordered, "and get on the dictograph. Don't leave it for a second until you get my orders."

"All right, governor," nodded the young man, and the next instant the darkness of the fire escape had swallowed him up.

"Aren't you going with him?" asked the girl quickly, speaking for the first time since their entrance into the room.

"I'm going to stay here with you," was the quiet reply. Miss Mazurek gasped and Kayton felt his pulses quicken.

"Oh, don't—don't!" she protested in real terror.

He smiled. "I've heard that before." Steady as were the great detective's nerves the word was wiped off his lips, and he started like a race horse as an angry buzz burst just over his head.

"Oh! What's that?" gasped the girl, both hands at her throat. Kayton threw his light above the door and discovered the "buzzer."

"That's their warning," he explained softly, hastening her toward the stairs. "They've got the front steps wired. There's some one at the street door now."

The girl hurried down distractedly. "What shall we do?" she whispered. "Right into your room?" he ordered. They were barely concealed from view before the other four members of the household came in the front door.

As they passed the door Kayton could hear them talking uneasily in undertones and now and then catch a word such as "don't like it" and "all the locks," and he smiled to himself. He knew they were discussing Manning's theft of the bag.

On the second floor the party broke up and their voices died away. The woman and the older of the three men went on to the attic, followed a minute later by the youngest member of the confederacy.

They were a strangely assorted trio. The leader and brains of the conspiracy against the currency of the land was the strangest of the three. He was a man of about fifty years, but one terrible experience had taken the stiffness out of his spine and the color out of his face, though it had not dimmed the hot fire of his dark eyes.

The other man was much younger, dapperly dressed in the extreme of masculine fashion. His face was flat and pasty. He was small boned and undersized—amemic, crafty, rattle.

He chose to be known as Simeon Gage. The older man was known to the secret service and a number of municipal police bureaus as Friedrich Kreisler, and with a certain heroism of crime he scorned an alias. He calmly lit the gas while Mrs. Martin drew the curtain. The younger man stood in the middle of the room and fidgeted.

"Doctor, we'll have to have all those locks changed, don't you think?" he inquired nervously in a high pitched voice that was almost a whine. "We might as well go to bed with the front door open."

"There was nothing in my bag to show what house the keys were for," Mrs. Martin reminded him quietly.

"I know, Mrs. Martin, but I've been uneasy lately—ever since that girl came," he confessed. "I thought I was being followed yesterday."

"You're always being followed," commented Kreisler. "You must have a bad conscience."

"I think perhaps I am gettin' too many cigarettes," admitted Mr. Gage. "I don't know, though, now. We must be gettin' pretty easy if people can come and pick our pockets. I don't think we ought to have that girl here. Some cheap divorce case detective will be roundin' us up next. Who is she, anyway?" he demanded suddenly, turning on Mrs. Martin. "I called up Hurley and asked him about her. Why doesn't he know anything about her?"

"I haven't had a chance to tell him yet," replied Mrs. Martin, indifferently. "She came only yesterday."

"You've had lots of chances to tell me," grumbled the young man. "It's none of your business, Gage," Mrs. Martin informed him.

"Well," he whined, with a sort of protesting helplessness, "I feel as nervous as a rabbit with a strange woman around."

Kreisler meanwhile had lowered the folding bed and produced from secret crannies in the mattress and structure

reproach. "Where is your courage?" "I don't know, Friedrich. I'm terribly afraid. I'm panic stricken! There's been too much—too much—Argyle's death."

"S-sh!" he interrupted sternly. "But the woman's terrors were uppermost. 'And that morning with the detectives!' she went on, with a shudder. 'Ah, I shouldn't have gone there!'"

"That was Hurley!" growled Kreisler, with a frown. "That was his rash advice!"

"No," said Mrs. Martin after a little pause; "I risked it myself—for the money. Honest money! I wanted to be able to say to you: 'Here, now we have enough. Let us cut loose from this life—all these people.' Friedrich, I want to be safe!"

divers bottles, marble slabs, shallow pans and the usual paraphernalia of a photographer. From a hidden recess of the closet a camera made its appearance. Gage eagerly offered to assist him, but the older man waved him aside with a cunning smile.

"You never let us help at anything but the bleaching," he protested. "I notice you're keeping everything you know under your hat. Some day you'll go off to Scotland with your money, like Andy Carnegie, and leave us all workin' in the mills."

"What I know I know," returned the German grimly.

"Yes, doctor," said Gage, "but I get tired sittin' around here waitin' for you to pull off your masterpieces."

Kreisler had seated himself at the table and slipped a one dollar bill in a bleaching solution. At Sage's last words he threw back his head and his eyes blazed with a fine anger.

"That is the way with you Americans!" he cried. "No patience, no artistry! Half baked, get rich quick! The jails are filled with such men as you." Then, he added more quietly, in the manner of an instructor, "Perfection is an affair of little things, but perfection is not a little thing!"

"Oh, I know, doctor, I know!" exclaimed Gage hastily, as he drew near the table. Then, he added, moving toward the door, "I guess I'll be goin' now. I'm only in the way."

CHAPTER XII.
Hurley's Visit.

AFTER he had gone Kreisler laughed to himself and slowly rocked the little gutta percha tray he held on the table before him. Mrs. Martin, who had lain on the lounge, watched him for a time in silence and at last arose with a deep sigh. Kreisler heard. The "cradling" stopped instantly, and he looked up, with a complete softening of his entire countenance.

"My dear heart, you are very tired," he said tenderly. The woman walked slowly over and stood beside him, looking down with love and dread in her eyes. He slipped one arm around her and rocked the tray with the other.

"Friedrich," she said suddenly, "I want to give it all up. Let's go!" He raised his head. "Where is your courage, my dear?" he said in gentle reproach. "Where is your courage?" "I don't know, Friedrich. I'm terribly afraid. I'm panic stricken! There's been too much—too much—Argyle's death."

"S-sh!" he interrupted sternly. "But the woman's terrors were uppermost. 'And that morning with the detectives!' she went on, with a shudder. 'Ah, I shouldn't have gone there!'"

"That was Hurley!" growled Kreisler, with a frown. "That was his rash advice!"

"No," said Mrs. Martin after a little pause; "I risked it myself—for the money. Honest money! I wanted to be able to say to you: 'Here, now we have enough. Let us cut loose from this life—all these people.' Friedrich, I want to be safe!"

JAMES WILL FIGHT FOR DUTILESS MEAT

Senator Ollie James.

Senator Ollie James of Kentucky has announced that he will fight to the finish for free cattle and free meat.

"I am for free cattle and meat and shall go the limit to get it," he recently declared. "Because some countries levy a tax on the imports of the American beef trust, why should we, in retaliation, starve the people of the United States? I favored free meat and free cattle in the campaign last fall, and I intend to do all I can to put them in the tariff now."

Advertise To Sell Your Farm

Too many people, dealers and owners write their want ads that might as well be signed by any of a score of people as themselves.

Every property has some distinctive features. Tell of them; tell why the property you have for sale is different from others; why it is worth more; why it is a good buy at the price you ask. Don't be so indefinite that to the stranger you tell nothing that arouses interest.

Example:

This produced 15 per cent returns on the price asked for the last five years. Title guaranteed. Price $8,000. Terms if desired.
